RISE & SHINE 2020
PROGRAM REPORT

Congratulations to our second class of graduates: Naashia Bettis, Tamara Foster, Shamara Kelley, Tiye McAllister, Tenisha Sanders, Yvonne Smith, Maria Spinner, Nicole White, Imani Worthy. And to the Rise & Shine team: Teresa Bachiller, Robbyne Wiley, Bianca Shaw, Nancy Fortunato, Ashanti Bryant, Tracy Serdjenian and Keyna Franklin.

Q: How did Rise & Shine prepare you to lead change?

- “It has prepared me to be able to share knowledge about the child welfare system and to help others.”

- “The lessons gave me a better outlook of how we will want to build our communities. It gave me the willpower to be where I live now. It prepared me to be a better community leader and to voice myself to the community.”

- “Rise & Shine prepared me with resources of organizations and different people to contact and different ways to advocate in your community.”

Rise & Shine is an 18-week parent-led leadership program that prepares parents to advocate for change in the child welfare system and in their communities. Rise & Shine:

- Educates parents about child welfare’s roots in separating African-American and Native American families and “saving” poor children from their families

- Connects participants to parent advocacy within the child welfare system and in impacted communities

- Prepares parents to educate peers about facing child welfare involvement and about trauma, stress and self-care as parents

- Builds peer connections that enable parents to cope with the emotional demands of advocacy

- Offers a writing and public speaking process to support parents in speaking up for justice
Q: What was most important to you about your experience?

“The beautiful thing about Rise is that a diverse group of women can come together in solidarity. We contradict what our persecutors want to accuse us of: We love our children, we are not monsters or abusers. We are peaceful.”

“The parent advocates were the most powerful women. What inspired me was hearing where they started and where they are now.”

“The writing was an eye opening. It put a new perspective and helped release negative energy.”

Q: What did you learn through Rise & Shine?

What have you done to advocate so far?

Q: What conversations have you shared with your community?

“The best part of the group was having a safe space to be, think, feel, and speak freely and honestly. We had the opportunity to speak raw and uncut about the injustices and shortfalls of systems and people without censorship. We got to be our unapologetic self and it felt so freeing!”

Q: How did this program enhance your leadership?

“The program gave me more confidence and empowered me to help others.”

“Now I have more knowledge and experiences. I am here for this work to help parents within communities.”

“It gave me more knowledge to speak. People at Rise helped me gain my strength.”

About Rise

Founded in 2005, Rise is dedicated to eliminating child welfare’s punitive and disparate impact on poor families of color and to building a social support system that truly protects families in need. Rise builds parents’ power to self-advocate by providing critical information and peer support to thousands of parents facing child welfare nationwide. Rise builds parents’ collective power to lead change by creating coalitions to improve child welfare practices and community conditions for affected families.
